

Andy Goldsworthy –

British Sculptor, Photographer and Environmentalist

IMPERMANENT
EARTH
ART

Art that will not last forever but only a short time

ANDY GOLDSWORTHY

Andy liked to use the landscape as his material, showing its color, how it changes, the energy, using natural materials.

Although he usually works in rural settings, his definition of the natural world is wide range. He says that nature is everywhere.

"Nature for me isn't the bit that stops in the national parks," he says. "It's in a city, in a gallery, in a building. It's everywhere we are."

What do these photographs have in common?
Do you see a repeated shape in each picture?

Goldsworthy Examples

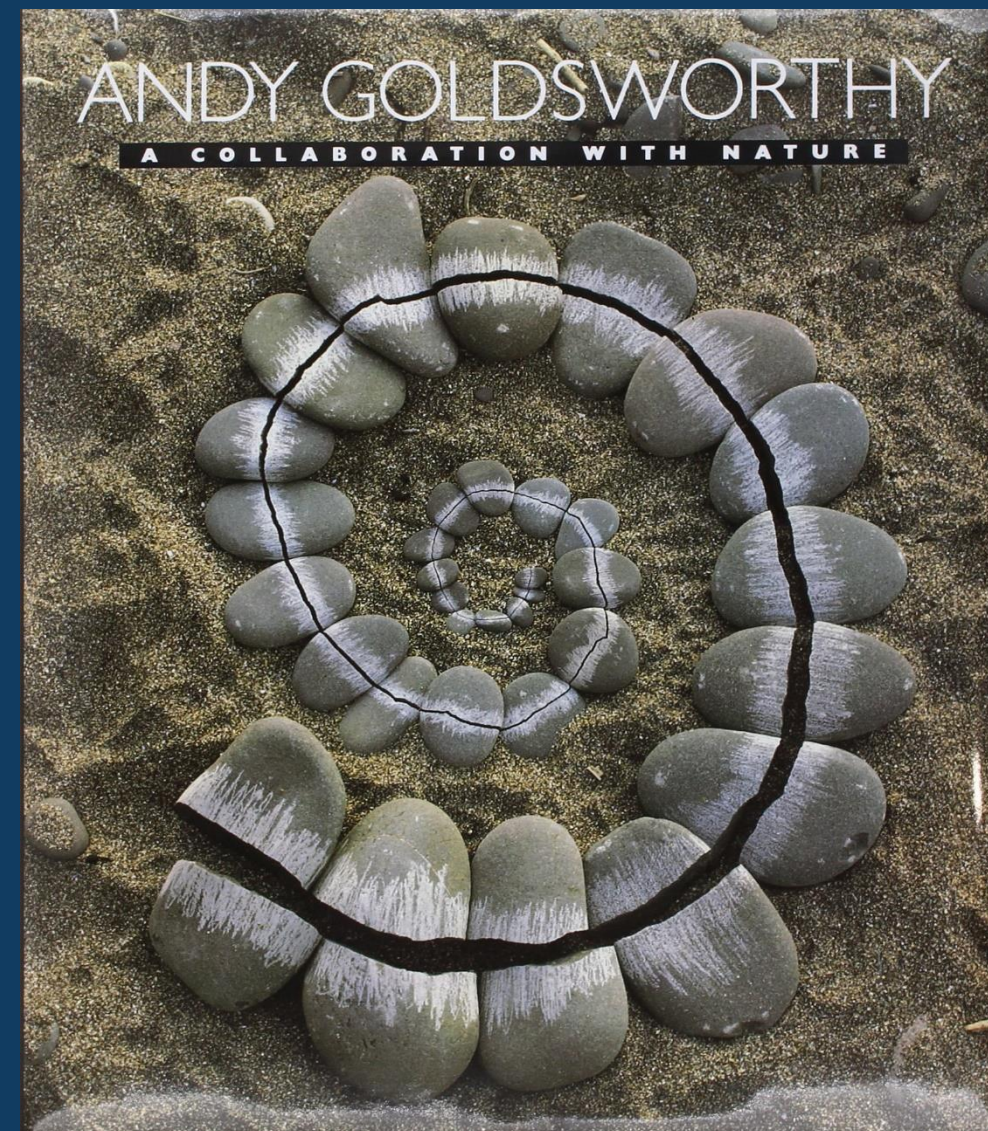

Look at the sculptures.
Do they have anything in common?
Are they made from nature?

- What kinds of lines do you see?
- What materials were used to create these lines in each picture?

Right now we don't have our school hallways and art room to display our art, but we do have our homes and outdoors!

Examples from people all around inspired by Goldsworthy

Lets Create our own art from nature and found objects!

Look around for colors for use.

Look at shapes, and lines for your idea.

Think about what objects you can find around in your yard, neighborhood, even in your house!

Goldsworthy Challenge

- What are some ideas of how you can create art out of nature or found objects?
- What are some materials you can use to create art with instead of normal art supplies (paint brushes, paint, markers, crayons, paper)?

Goldsworthy Challenge

- Create an artwork from found objects in nature.
- Take a picture of your artwork.
- Email it to me or your teacher. My email is AJSartclass@gmail.com
- Please put your name and Homeroom teacher in the email.
- I would like to share these with your class at some time.
- Your artwork could also be chosen for the MNPS Virtual Art Show that is in a couple of weeks!
- HAVE FUN!!!
